

Studiosity Privacy Notice

Privacy Notice

Manchester Metropolitan work closely with Studiosity, and share basic information about you to allow Studiosity to offer you access to their services under contract.

Studiosity become independent controllers of your information, which consists of your name, student email address and ID, course and degree information, as well as any additional information you submit to them. Studiosity confirm details of your interaction with the service back to Manchester Metropolitan, such as number of words you have submitted, time spent, and details of feedback on the work.

Studiosity is based in Australia, and the University rely on standard contractual clauses to ensure your information is adequately protected – you are able to request a copy of these from our data protection officer. Studiosity will delete your personal data after a period of 15 months of account inactivity, retaining only anonymised information that cannot be linked back to you.

Further information about how Studiosity process your information is available here. For details about how to access your data subject rights including the right to object, and for how to contact our data protection officer, please see our rights pages available here. You also have the right to make a complaint to the information commissioner if you have a complaint about how we use your personal information.